Enterprise data and insights platform

The foundation for enterprise data management and decision support

Challenge

In this era of digital transformation, data has emerged to be the world's most valuable resource, as also famously quoted "Data is the New Oil." Just like oil, raw and unrefined data is not usable and valuable by itself, thereby the value is only created when it is collected completely, accurately, consistent with other relevant and related data, and made available in time to become meaningful information for any business decisions, analysis, reporting, and compliance needs.

Solution

Fintellix India Pvt Ltd platform comes with a pre-built and extendable data model, and data processing capabilities that allows analysts and users to rapidly acquire and organize data. Reporting and features empower business users to create and distribute content in a secure and governed environment. Our deep understanding of transaction systems and financial industry subject areas, together with data management and analytics competencies allows us to help our customers maximize the value of data in the enterprise.

Highlights

- Robust data model

Fintellix proprietary financial services data model caters to the needs of banks, financial institutions, and fintechs with granular data stored across multiple subject areas.

- Data validation

Out-of-the-box modules to understand the data deviations, drill down to the lowest data elements enables users to understand the data quality related challenges and validate the data.

- Manage manual data

Manage and integrate manual data maintained in spreadsheets into the data ecosystem through file uploads or online data edits.

- Data centralization

Centralized data flow and curated data repository enables data comprehensiveness, uniformity, and consistency to meet the data needs of all the downstream solutions and use cases.

- Curated insights

User driven insights with Fintellix XLerator module. It gives the ability to ensure curated reports are generated by the users without involvement of the IT team.

- Flexible deployment

Deployable on premise or on the cloud and can seamlessly integrate into the existing data ecosystem by operating on an existing or a new data warehouse/repository.

Our enterprise data model covers a wide range of subject areas, and our platform offers various data management, reporting and collaboration capabilities for insight generation at aggregate and granular levels.
